Admission to the Baltimore Public Works Museum is just $1

Baltimore City Public Works Director George L. Winfield invites everyone to join in and celebrate National Public Works Week, May 20 through May 26.

"Public Works: Moving Life Forward" is the theme for this year's celebration. In Baltimore, the men and women of Public Works understand full well the meaning behind this slogan. DPW employees work around the clock, providing valuable services to 1.8 million people every day, from trash and recycling collection, to energy conservation, fleet management, harbor cleaning, city building maintenance and to providing a plentiful and consistently high quality water supply.

These activities will be highlighted during Public Works Week with an exhibit at the Baltimore Public Works Museum. The museum also features a "Women in Public Service" display which highlights the dedicated, hard-working women of Public Works. Visitors young and old can also enjoy the "Heavy Metal" exhibit which includes fun facts about vehicles maintained by DPW's fleet management section and try their driving skills at the "18 Wheels of Steel" truck simulator. Admission to the Baltimore Public Works Museum will be reduced to only $1 from May 20-26.

Everyone is encouraged to join in the celebration of National Public Works Week and visit the Public Works Museum to learn more about how Public Works' services shape a modern city and its environment. The Baltimore Public Works Museum is located on Pier 7 of the Inner Harbor, 751 Eastern Avenue. The museum is open Tuesday through Sunday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Children under six are admitted free.
